THE GROUND BENEATH THE EAGLE

Two Days in the Validator Bottleneck

Two weeks of automation theater. One button that would not move. The true engineering memoir of a two-day marathon in which multiple capable AI agents produced impressive code, persuasive progress reports - and the small operational objective stayed unfulfilled. The lesson: generation is abundant; verification is scarce. The validator bottleneck is real, and every team building with AI agents will meet it.
A documentary volume of The Beholder Project - where the eagle flies, the ground verifies, and the return must be proven.

"Generation is abundant. Verification is scarce."
